COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The committee to hire a consulting engineering firm to make a study of the sewer system should be appointed this week. The selection are trying to be represented by at least one member of the board, on each committee that is appointed. This should help the various committees perform their task. James Hutchins will be the selectman on the sewer study committee and report back and forth between the board and the committee.

The usual procedure for a sewer study committee is to talk to the representatives of four or five consulting engineering firms. Because of the nature of the work they do and their code of ethics, consulting engineering firms will not bid on a job.

The committee must select a firm on the basis of the reputation of the consulting firm and the committee meeting with the representatives of the firm. After the firm is picked, the price of the job is discussed and the work is started. If the committee and the consulting firm can not agree on a price for the job, the committee will start negotiations with the second choice firm and so on until a firm is hired.

I feel quite certain that the selection will give the study committee instructions to obtain information on a lagoon type treatment facility. There is one similar facility in operation in the state and it is working very well. There are several in operation throughout the middle west that have been in operation for several years.

The main reason that there are not located in New England is that quite a lot of land is required. From preliminary observations, it seems that the soil conditions and the land area are suitable for a lagoon facility in this town.

NIGHT OFFICER'S DOG KILLED BY MOTORIST IN DAYTIME ACCIDENT

A Tribute: "Reanie," one of Bethel's finer young citizens was laid to rest Sunday morning.

Only one year and three months old, Reanie loved her master and was a devoted companion and helper to him in his work. Her master, Oakley Godwin, our night watchman, had bought her and trained her to assist him through his nightly rounds.

Very alert to unfamiliar sounds and sights, Reanie frequently was able to warn her master of unusual situations. She was trained well to stay at heel, and behaved in a business-like way on the leash. She had a fine disposition and fine duty loved to play. The fine German Shepherd was hit by a motorist in front of her home in Mayville last Saturday. Her death is not only a loss to her master and his family but to the whole town.

Reanie was buried in the cemetery in front of her home.

Dear friends,

Two little girls stopped at the curb. They looked both ways before crossing the street. We just witnessed this occurrence, and it shows that these little girls have been coached by someone, probably parents and teachers, to be careful about traffic.

Now if we can impress drivers to be more careful, our safety problems would be largely solved.

Respectfully,

S. Allen Tinsley
